

English Terminology for Erasmus+ Students

Syllabus

1. VETUNI Brno (faculties, departments, organization, facilities, etc.)
2. Introduction to Veterinary Medical Terminology. Anatomy and Physiology (Skeletal, Muscular and Cardiovascular System)
3. Anatomy and Physiology (Respiratory, Digestive, Nervous and Reproductive System)
4. Anatomy and Physiology (Lymphatic, Integumentary, Endocrine and Urinary Systems)
5. Pharmacology (types and classes of drugs, drug effects, PIL, specific routes of drug administration)
6. Disease (general terminology)
7. Common Zoonoses
8. Common Zoonoses
9. Laboratory and Diagnostic Techniques
10. Animal Husbandry

Course profile:

- 1 lesson (90 minutes) per week
- October – December or March – May
- Suitable for elementary to advanced level (A2 – C1)
- 2 credits

Course aims and objectives

- improve general and social English language skills and your pronunciation
- the course helps you use your professional English confidently and correctly;
- enhance your communication skills for dealing with English-speaking colleagues and teachers
- raise awareness of intercultural issues and “international” English
- develop specific vocabulary and expressions for English used in the sector of veterinary medicine and hygiene